

Ask New State Constitution

Lawyers, CIO, Women Plead To Solons

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Spokesmen for lawyers, CIO unions and women's clubs pleaded today for a new Illinois constitution.

They asked the legislature to give the people a chance to vote on whether to call a constitutional convention.

The present 79-year-old fundamental law of the state, they said, is outdated, impractical, wasteful, and, except for its bill of rights, "a general restraint on the people."

Considering Resolution
Their testimony was given to the House executive committee, which is considering a constitutional convention, or "con con," resolution.

Opponents will be heard on the next two Tuesdays before the committee of 14 Democrats and 11 Republicans decides whether to kill the resolution or report it favorably for action on the floor.

The chief proponents testifying today were leaders of the Illinois and the Chicago Bar Associations, the CIO Illinois State Industrial Union Council, and the League of Women Voters.

They were subjected to critical cross examination by House members who oppose con con.

These opponents, sympathizing with the hostility of the AFL, manufacturer and farmer groups to con con, have defeated every effort since 1934 to put the convention question on the general election ballot.

Favors Con Con
Samuel C. Witwer, Jr., of the Chicago Bar Association summarized the case in favor of con con. He said, Chicago lawyers favor it by 4 to 1. He declared that:

1. Proponents of con con don't want to do anything "deleterious" to the bill of rights. They only want to make the statement of basic rights (Article 2) "more effective."

2. They want a new constitution, not because the present one is old, but because it has "resisted change and is so locked up" by amending difficulties that it has had only one substantial change in 60 years.

3. The "bugaboo" revenue clause, requiring uniform taxation, should be revised. This should be done, not to pave the way for a graduated income tax which many fear but "few want," but to provide more orderly collection of property taxes through classification of property. This would make intangible property share the present, "disproportionate" tax load on land.

4. The present five per cent limitation on municipal indebtedness has "backfired and we get around it through subterfuge" in the form of new authorities and other governmental units.

5. A new charter would permit judicial reform, that could rid Cook county of coalition, bipartisan judicial election tickets, speed up decisions and tenure of judges, and give the state supreme court a chance to spend more time on major issues.

6. A new constitution is the only way to give cities and other local governments more home rule, or "self determination." It would free them from their legal dependence on the legislature, which now must give them their powers.

7. A new charter could make future changes easier to make, by means of a "reasonable, not impossible" amending clause, instead of the present straitjacket which requires a majority of all votes cast in a general election.

Will Become Explosive
Witwer concluded that "unless we deal with this problem now, it will become so explosive it will x x blow heads off." He added:

"Our past constitutional policy has been dictated by apathy and inertia."

Others testifying in support of Witwer's arguments were Maurice P. McElligott, Chicago, secretary treasurer of the Illinois State Industrial Union Council. Mrs. Preston Farley of Glenview, of the Illinois League of Women Voters; George E. Woods, vice president of the Chicago Bar Association; Barnabas F. Sears of Aurora, and Albert E. Jenner, Jr., both of the Illinois Bar Association; and Louis Ance, corporation counsel of Maywood, a Chicago suburban village and other Chicago suburban school, fire and park districts.

JURY FREES MAN OF MANSLAUGHTER

St. Louis, Feb. 15.—(AP)—A Circuit Court grand jury today freed a Terre Haute, Ind., motorist of a manslaughter charge.

The motorist, Harold Lyon, 41, made an illegal left turn Jan. 13 at Delmar and Union boulevards, colliding with a car driven by Richard M. Senturia, 42. Senturia was killed. Lyon told police he did not know left turns on green lights were prohibited here.

Farm Equipment Workers Denied Election By UAW

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 15.—(AP)—The CIO United Auto Workers today turned down a request from rival units of the CIO Farm Equipment Workers for an election in the quad-cities area of Illinois.

Members of the two unions fought in front of an International Harvester Co. plant at East Moline, Ill., last week. The UAW-CIO at the time was passing out organizational leaflets to the workers.

John T. Watkins, district president of the FEU-CIO, asked the UAW-CIO to consent to an election in which the workers in plants there would decide which union they preferred.

"Such an election," John W. Livingston replied by wire today, "would be completely unofficial, limited geographically and would have no status before the law. It would not be binding either on workers or management. You propose a purely local approach to a problem which must be solved on a much broader basis."

Livingston, a UAW-CIO vice president and director of the union's agricultural implement division, took part in last week's disorders and faces a disorderly charge as a result.

Plane That Took Off Accidentally Found Miles Away

Fort Lewis, Wash., Feb. 15.—(AP)—A pilotless military scout plane, which took off accidentally here yesterday morning, was reported found today 100 miles away across the Cascade mountains.

The plane would have had to climb more than 3,000 feet to clear the lowest elevation in the mountain range.

Pilot Bob Krouskop, Ellensburg, said he had identified the craft. It was lying in deep snow on a farm near Kittitas, east of Ellensburg.

Lt. Herbert A. Winters, pilot, was cranking the two-place liaison-type (L-16) ship at Gray Field yesterday when his passenger, leaning forward to open the door accidentally hit the throttle.

The passenger, Cpl. William G. Keiser, rolled out of the speeding plane, breaking his leg and knocking out several teeth as he fell. The plane roared into the air.

For some time it was seen and heard above populated Tacoma areas before it seemed to vanish.

Free Only Suspect In Doorway Killing On Habeas Corpus

Chicago, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The only person detained in the investigation of a mystery killing won his freedom today on a habeas corpus writ.

He is Sam Genovese, 51, of suburban Cicero, whom police kept in custody since Sunday in their effort to solve the doorway shooting of Harold Lindquist, 41, Saturday night.

Police had been checking to learn if a love triangle might be behind the killing of Lindquist, an International Harvester company employee. Lindquist had become enamored of Mrs. Dorothea Damiani, 31, a worker in his office. She previously had carried on a love affair with Genovese, her brother-in-law, for nine years, Police Capt. George Homer said.

Chemical tests of Genovese's hands, however, did not indicate that he had fired a firearm recently. Homer reported. At today's habeas corpus hearing before Chief Justice James J. McDermott of the criminal court, Police Lt. John Golden said his men had no evidence to warrant placing any criminal charge against Genovese.

Doughton previously had said he thinks congress ought to wait about 60 days for a clarification of the whole economic picture before taking up the tax matter.

"I do not favor the inclusion in the north Atlantic pact of any clause or provision requiring the United States automatically to go to war, if any one of the signatories should be attacked. The constitution in article 1, section 8, specifically provides that congress possesses the power to declare war. That power is exclusive. We could not legally sign a treaty providing for automatic entrance into war."

"Measures short of war such as consultation and advice are not within the ban."

"The United States must retain the power to make its own decisions as to declaring war in view of the circumstances and international aspects at the time."

Some diplomats expressed concern that the senate debate yesterday might lessen the confidence of western European nations that they would get U. S. help in case they were attacked by Russia.

The debate spurred state department efforts to find more wording which would be acceptable to the senate, the department and the nations which the pact is being negotiated.

Tonight Connally issued this statement:

"The Roman Empire began the subjugation of Spain in 201 B.C."

Says Tax Hike To Come Soon

Rayburn Will Seek To Avoid U. S. Deficit

Washington, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The administration sent another urgent plea to Congress today for economic weapons it said will be needed more than ever this spring to deal with an upsurge in living costs.

It submitted a bill providing standby authority to impose controls over wages, prices and scarce commodities, plus power to build industrial plants if needed to speed production.

At the same time, House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) alerted the nation's taxpayers to the "probability" of a tax hike this year to avoid a federal deficit.

Part of Truman Plan
Both proposals are part of President Truman's general economic program.

The anti-inflation measure was submitted by secretary of agriculture Charles F. Brannan shortly after a White House economist warned the lawmakers that the price pressure is likely to be renewed this spring and could lead to an "ultimate crash."

Rayburn made his forecast after a White House conference with President Truman and House democratic leaders. He told reporters he was making the statement to dispel the idea that the House Ways and Means committee had permanently sidetracked tax legislation in deciding to give priority to Mr. Truman's new social security program.

Democratic members of the committee had been invited to the White House meeting to go over details of the administration plan to expand the Social Security system to multi-billion dollar levels. Hearings on the expansion plan are scheduled to open February 28.

No Determinations Made
Rayburn said "no determinations were made as to coverage of amounts for old age assistance and other benefits."

The administration plan, however, is expected to call for greatly increased payroll deductions. There have been advance indications that the levies would be boosted to 3 per cent on employers' pay-rolls. The taxes, it has been indicated, may be applied to wages up to $4,800, instead of the current $3,000 limit.

These levies would be designed to finance the proposed addition of 20,000,000 workers to Social Security rolls with at least a 50 per cent hike in benefits, plus a projected national health insurance program, over which there is mounting dispute.

Will Boost S. S. Tax
This vast program is expected to boost Social Security tax revenues to about $8,000,000,000 annually. The present tax takes totals about $3,250,000,000 which is collected from the six per cent payroll deductions levied equally on workers and employers, plus a one and one-half per cent tax employers pay into the unemployment compensation fund.

Rayburn did not mention the $4,000,000,000 income tax program Mr. Truman has requested but he said "in all probability we'll have to have some tax legislation."

"There will be time," he said, "as the picture develops to see what kind of tax bill we need to keep us out of the red."

Rayburn reported that the President probably will make a statement himself on the tax situation Thursday "to try to dispel this fog."

Rep. Doughton (D-N.C.), chairman of the tax-writing Ways and Means committee, said "it is necessary to avoid a deficit, we'll have to make an effort to raise some money; of course, tell the people if they don't want more taxes they'll have to hold down appropriations."

Doughton previously had said he thinks congress ought to wait about 60 days for a clarification of the whole economic picture before taking up the tax matter.

"It will not be announced by the commission," McKee replied.

He said a review board might decide to disclose the names and verdicts later.

McKee said the secrecy, which is believed to have no precedent in U. S. military trials, was recommended by the army intelligence for security reasons. He said it was felt the security of the United States would be endangered if some of the testimony and names of those on trial became known.

Green States AFL Won't Put Solons On Its Payroll

Washington, Feb. 15.—(AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said today the AFL has "no thought" of putting state legislators on its payroll.

Green made the statement in reply to questions from members of the Senate Labor committee.

Senator Morse (D-Ore.) called Green's attention to a news story which said the payroll suggestion had been discussed at a meeting of the administrative committee of the labor's league for political education at Miami earlier this month. The league is the AFL's political arm.

Its meeting was held in conjunction with the mid-winter meeting of the AFL executive council. The leadership of both the council and the league is the same.

Morse told Green "great injury has been done to your organization by the story."

URGES TRUMAN SEEK CARDINAL'S RELEASE

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 15.—(AP)—The Illinois House today urged President Truman to "use all peaceful means" to obtain the release of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty.

A resolution adopted unanimously said "the brutal persecution of Catholics in Hungary and the denial of religious freedom in that unhappy state is reprehensible to freedom loving Americans of all beliefs."

After Green had denounced those T-H law provisions one by one, Taft, co-author of the Taft-Hartley law, said:

"Mr. Green, I don't want to make a speech. But it seems to me you are claiming the most extraordinary special privilege any organization ever claimed in the United States."

Green quietly replied: "all right, Senator. We know when a measure is striking at our heart and when it is not."

The exchange between Taft and Green came after the AFL chief told the committee that the T-H law is hampering efforts to drive communists out of unions.

Stevenson Names Puffer As Illinois Education Director

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Governor Stevenson, rapidly nearing completion of his cabinet, today appointed Noble J. Puffer of Barrington as state director of registration and education.

Puffer, 47, is a former Cook county superintendent of schools. He replaces Frank G. Thompson of Mt. Vernon, leaving only three holdovers from the old Republican state administration still serving as directors.

The three are Dr. Roland R. Cross, health; T. P. Sullivan, public safety; and Robert Dewey, aeronautics.

Stevenson hasn't said what his plans are for these jobs but there has been much statewide speculation that Cross and Sullivan may stay on, at least for the present.

Grand Jury Will Investigate Doings Of Tucker Corp.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—(AP)—A federal grand jury investigation of "Preston Tucker and the activities and certain aspects of the Tucker Corporation" will start Monday.

This was announced today by U. S. Attorney Otto Kerner, Jr., in Chicago and the Justice Department in Washington.

Tucker took over a huge wartime B-29 airplane engine plant in 1946 to introduce what has been widely heralded as a "radically" different new automobile, powered by a rear engine.

So far only 38 cars have been produced, lacking many of the features announced in advance.

Kerner estimated 100 witnesses will be heard during the inquiry by the regular February grand jury. He predicted the inquiry will take at least a month.

Three subpoenas for witnesses already have been issued and more will be issued before the end of the week, Kerner said.

Ultra-Secret Spy Trial To Be Held In Munich Soon

Munich, Germany, Feb. 15.—(AP)—A spy trial so secret that the identity of the defendant or defendants and the verdict will be concealed is to open here tomorrow before a U. S. military commission.

The person or persons accused will stand trial on charges punishable by the death sentence. The charge is sale of important secret information to the Communist-dominated Czechoslovak government.

Brig. Gen. John L. McKee, chairman of the trial commission, said one other of five pending spy trials will be equally secret. All of the trials relate to the same basic case.

"Does this mean that if a man or woman is ordered executed, it will not be announced?" a reporter asked.

"It will not be announced by the commission," McKee replied.

He said a review board might decide to disclose the names and verdicts later.

McKee said the secrecy, which is believed to have no precedent in U. S. military trials, was recommended by the army intelligence for security reasons. He said it was felt the security of the United States would be endangered if some of the testimony and names of those on trial became known.

Taft Accuses AFL Of Seeking Special Privileges In US

Washington, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) today accused the American Federation of Labor of seeking "the most extraordinary special privilege any organization ever claimed in the United States."

Taft made the statement after William Green, the AFL's 55-year-old president, told the Senate Labor committee there is no good reason why unions should be subject to several Taft-Hartley law provisions.

Those included the ban on closed shops, the section making unions liable for damages, and the provision requiring unions to bargain collectively.

After Green had denounced those T-H law provisions one by one, Taft, co-author of the Taft-Hartley law, said:

"Mr. Green, I don't want to make a speech. But it seems to me you are claiming the most extraordinary special privilege any organization ever claimed in the United States."

Green quietly replied: "all right, Senator. We know when a measure is striking at our heart and when it is not."

County Prosecutor Pledges To Clean Up Sangamon Area

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Springfield's new prosecutor said tonight he is keeping a campaign pledge to "clean up Sangamon county and keep it clean."

State's Attorney George P. Contrakon declared last week's primary election victory of Peoria Mayor Carl O. Triebel is proof that a former "wide open town can be a clean city and like it."

Triebel had clamped the lid tight on all gambling—commercialized and charity bingo games alike. The same has been done here by Contrakon.

Tonight, in two radio talks, the Sangamon prosecutor gave this reason for cracking down on charity bingo:

"Bingo is gambling according to the law of the state."

Monsignor John B. Franz, administrator of the Springfield Roman Catholic diocese, has taken issue with Contrakon on this view.

U.S. Considering Vast Storage Bins For Surplus Grain

Washington, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The government is considering the construction of vast storage facilities during the coming spring and summer sufficient to care for 250,000,000 to 350,000,000 bushels of surplus grains, it was learned today.

A general outline of the plan may be laid before the Senate Agriculture committee tomorrow by Secretary of Agriculture Brannan. He has been called to testify on administration sponsored legislation which would let the agriculture department go into the storage business in a big way.

Building of a chain of government storage bins would be aimed at helping relieve a serious shortage of storing facilities. That shortage has weakened the government's price support programs for grains.

Only grain which is in good storage is eligible for price support aid. The dumping of surplus by the agriculture department would be only a part of a huge storage construction program the government officials say there is need for an increase of at least 1,000,000,000 bushels in the country's grain storage capacity.

Russia Ousts U. S. Writer

Say Trotsky's English Tutor Is U. S. Spy

Moscow, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Anna Louise Strong, American author and journalist ordered deported from the Soviet Union as a spy, is a prolific writer who has consistently expressed pronounced pro-Soviet views.

The deportation order was announced early today.

The Moscow Press, announcing her arrest and the order for her deportation, described her as "a well known intelligence operator."

It reported she had entered Russia "as a consequence of the carelessness of certain foreign relations officials."

Correspondent For Labor News
Miss Strong is listed here as a correspondent for the Allied labor news. She is one of seven American correspondents in Moscow.

She is the second American within a year to be accused of spying and ordered expelled. Robert Magidoff, correspondent for NBC, the Mr. Crow-Hill Publishing company and the British Exchange Telegraph News agency, and his wife were asked to leave the country April 15, 1948.

Miss Strong once gave Finnish lessons to Leon Trotsky, revolutionary leader whom Soviet Russia expelled in 1928.

Washington turned a puzzled eye upon the Russian order for expulsion of Miss Strong. The Soviet's accusation that she is a spy, working against the U.S.S.R., is in strange contrast with her writings, which have a pronounced pro-Soviet flavor.

Many Americans still are puzzled by the case of Earl Browder, one-time top communist in the United States. The Communist party in America expelled him in 1946. He made a trip to Moscow, and returned as a sales representative for a number of Soviet publishers. The American Reds refused to reinstate him as a communist, however.

Dispatches from Moscow, which are subject to censorship, have not explained what the Russians accuse Miss Strong of doing, saying or writing.

Know No Evidence
Officials in Washington said they knew of no evidence that she was a spy. They said they regarded her as pro-Soviet.

On a trip to the United States last summer, Miss Strong supported the presidential candidacy of Henry A. Wallace. There is no record that she made any statements contrary to her writings that she "loved" Russia and the Russians.

At various times since the first went to Moscow in 1921 she has written in defense and praise of the scheme of things in the Soviet Union—the spirit of the people, the way the government operates, the economic planning, some of its purges, and Russian international aims, among other things. She even singled out Moscow's garbage disposal system for praise.

One of her books is entitled "What About Russia? An honest reply to some honest questions." It is a question-and-answer volume.

Pro-Red Book
Typically it asks: "has the average worker or peasant in Russia any voice in the government of his country?"

It replies: "considerably more than he has in America."

In a volume entitled "dictatorship and democracy in the Soviet Union" she wrote: "chief of the joys of life in the Soviet Union is to meet, in far-flung factories and farms, those ever-increasing men and women, able and tireless, who function after the manner of Stalin."

Another book, entitled "The first time in history," said she loved the Soviet Union and its people for "the heroism, the sacrifice, the comradeship, and the joy of pioneers who, in the midst of hardship, exist to believe that they are creating something new."

Baltimore Bank Robbed Of $30,000

INDIANS SHOULD COME FIRST

New mountains of snow and driving wind add to the suffering of blizzard-tortured western United States. Heroic efforts are continued to save the livestock through haylift operations. The way Americans rise to such occasions causes every patriotic citizen to be proud that he is an American.

Yet in this vast and important enterprise to save a portion of the nation's food supply, there is a tinge of materialism that causes those who reflect to wince a bit.

A press dispatch of Feb. 2:

"Part of the vast haylift and bulldozer operations fighting the west's big snowdrifts to reach 5,500,000 head of livestock were diverted to carry relief to the dying Indians in Arizona and South Dakota. These native Americans were suffering from hunger and pneumonia.

It wouldn't take as much of an operation to help the Indians as it would to feed five and a half million cattle. That probably is why only "a part" of the operations were diverted. But in a way this typifies our treatment of the Indians for many years. We placed them on wasteland incapable of producing them a livelihood. (It was purely an accident that oil was found on some reservations. We go along with makeshift regulations and policies that render many of the Indian tribes helpless on a barren no-man's-land.

We often place them second in importance to cattle.

Fishing License

C. W. Mills, proprietor of the Pacific hotel barber shop, found the footie slippery Tuesday morning as he walked toward the court house. Ice covered the sidewalks, but Mr. Mills was on an important mission, and he didn't let that deter him from his purpose.

A few minutes later Mr. Mills had himself a brand new 1949 fishing license. He was the first person to be issued a license from the new supply which has just been received at the county clerk's office. Deputy County Clerk P. E. Peterson filled out the necessary information and issued the license to Mr. Mills.

Jacksonville Area Still Plagued By Icy Roads, Walks

There is no question about it—this winter will go down in the books as one of the roughest, toughest seasons in memory of residents of the Jacksonville area.

Freezing rain has kept highways and sidewalks covered with ice almost continuously since the first of the year. Scores of persons have been injured, some seriously, by falls. A dozen or more automobile accidents have been attributed to icy conditions of the highways.

Pavements and sidewalks wore their customary glossy finish Tuesday. Rain fell most of Monday, freezing almost as soon as it reached the earth. Ice clung to trees and wires but not in sufficient volume to result in damage.

The turn in the weather was disheartening to many persons who during the past few days watched the gradual thawing of several inches of ice which had almost become a permanent fixture. That particular coating of ice was disappearing down sewers and gutters, but another arrived to take its place.

Travel on secondary highways has been difficult and in some instances impossible since Jan. 1. Farmers encounter difficulty in getting around, even to do the necessary chores. Care of farm live stock is especially difficult under present conditions.

A glance at the calendar might provide some reason for optimism. February is more than half over. The arrival of March is expected to furnish something new on the weather bill-of-fare. The continuous presence of ice has become monotonous even to those with extraordinary acrobatic talents who have succeeded in maintaining their equilibrium.

Morgan, Sangamon Tax Conference Set For Mar. 3

A meeting for taxpayers of Sangamon and Morgan counties has been called jointly by the Morgan County Taxpayers' Association, Sangamon County Public Expenditure Council and the state-wide Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois for Thursday evening, March 3, at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the Centennial building in Springfield.

Donald R. Rouser and Ralph Cipolla, Jr., Federation field representatives, will start work in Morgan and Sangamon counties on February 18 to develop taxpayers interest in the meeting.

The Springfield meeting will be the 9th in a series being held by the Taxpayers' Federation in Senatorial Districts throughout the state, for the purpose of finding out what the taxpayers of Illinois want their senators and representatives to do on issues of major importance coming before the current sessions of the Illinois General Assembly and Federal Congress.

"The 100% assessment laws are the best example of how legislation can affect the pocketbook of every taxpayer in Morgan county," Rouser said. "Unless the people of Morgan county are willing to come to this meeting, discuss tax issues of major importance and let their elected senators and representatives know how they feel, then they'll have only themselves to blame if only the voice of the taxpayer is heard in Springfield and in Washington."

The Morgan County Taxpayers' Association and the Sangamon County Public Expenditure Council are county-wide citizen organizations affiliated with the state-wide Federation.

Latest Returns On Polio Drive Bring Total To $3,900

More recent donations have brought the total received in Morgan county through the 1948 March of Dimes to $3,900, according to an announcement made by Attorney Ralph Thompson, county chairman. From Murrayville, the donations amounted to $52.00, with $20.04 of that amount coming from the schools, and the remainder, $32.06, from coin collectors placed in various places of business.

A dance held at the Jacksonville State hospital on Feb. 3, under the chairmanship of John R. Dunn, netted a $19 donation for the drive.

Puts Message
Inside Fresh Egg

Des Moines, Ia.—(P)—If you know a hen's egg-assembly line layout you can put messages inside chicken eggs—before the eggs are laid. Dr. Robert E. Phillips, head of the department of poultry husbandry at Iowa State College, has been doing it for years.

Dr. Phillips, who has surprised friends with greetings or congratulatory messages sent inside freshly laid eggs, says anyone and do it. All you need is to be handy with a scalpel and know the inner workings of a live hen.

You simply substitute the message for the regular yolk at the precise moment the yolk starts its journey toward becoming an egg, Phillips explained. The hen does the rest. Best results are obtained by placing the message in a contained smaller than the egg yolk, Dr. Phillips said.

POP Goes the QUEEN

THE STORY: Quiz Show Winner John Henry and Sin Conover, spending an expensive vacation at a swank resort, witness the death of Homer Anglin. Before Anglin dies he whispers to John Henry, "You already got it." Then the Conovers' quarters are occupied by Faye Jordan under a pretext of a mistake in reservations, and their luggage is searched while it is moved to another cottage. John Henry, deciding to "act dumb," with Faye in order to learn more about the mystery, meets her at the swimming pool. Sin tries not to be jealous. Also at the pool are Sammon Robottom, an archeologist; Miss Thelma Loomis, a gossip columnist; and Mr. Trim, representing the quiz-show sponsor.

SIN clenched her fists hard. She said to herself: now look here, St. Clair, you are not—positively not—going to lose your temper. Across the pool, Miss Jordan was smiling sleepily up at John Henry's attentive face. Sin closed her eyes tight and gritted her teeth. Now look here, she began again.

But she was on fire, from the dark red page-boy down to the crimson toenails that peeked out of her suede sandals. I don't look so bad, either, she thought. In fact, I look darn good. She was wearing the finest white blouse that her husband liked and the full peasant skirt. The ensemble chopped at least five years off her age and made her look a saucy 18 again. Anyway, not like a cast-aside wife of three years' standing.

She spared another angry glance at the couple across the pool. John Henry was keeping the Jordan girl to her feet. Her husband flashed a guilty look at Sin and then the brunet seized his hand gaily and started to drag him along the flagged path toward the guest cottages. Sin's lips pressed out flat in a thin red line and she clenched her fists.

The reluctant Conover was pulled out of sight between screening palms. A few paces away, Thelma Loomis and Mr. Trim were nodding and talking—probably thought of screaming just as he stopped.

"Call for all the help you like," the white-haired man intoned. "No one will notice another noise from this direction." He folded his arms and his hawklike mask was intent, fierce.

THEY stood before the building. Its four corner pillars were bare adobe bricks. The rest was wire mesh that curved up until it seemed to melt into the bright sky. Inside the aviary, hordes of bright-winged birds darted and soared in whirlwinds of color, enraptured at the disturbing visitors. They flapped and cawed and screamed piercingly, flooding the air with outcry.

The din was tremendous. Sin bowed her head and put her hands over her ears. "Let me go," she begged.

Stronger hands pulled them away again. "Listen to me. My name is Sammon Robottom." The name didn't mean anything to her. "Let me go," Sin said again.

"My business permits me no respect for feelings," Robottom said. "I get what I seek. I've robbed graves and rifled tombs to do my duty—immortalize the dead. I want you to recognize how strongly I feel about this entire affair."

"We haven't done anything," Sin said. "Why should we be—?" Robottom cut her off with a savage gesture. "Neither you nor your husband will be hurt," he said. Then he added, "If."

"If what?" Sin quavered. "If you forget all about this Jones business and go home where you belong."

Sin backed away, trying to remember who else had mentioned Jones recently. "No more Joneses. No more Conovers in Azura. Can I depend upon you to take that message to your husband? Stay away from here and stay away from things which aren't your business. Briefly, Mrs. Conover—stay away from her!"

Sin nodded automatically, blindly eyeing the hard gray eyes. Then she turned and fled.

Conservation Farming Saves Resources, Yet It's Profitable—Cohee

"There are no new frontiers, except those right on your own farm," asserted Melville Cohee of the regional office, United States Conservation Service, when he addressed Morgan landowners attending the annual meeting of the soil conservation district held Tuesday at Farm Bureau Hall.

Hoagland Reviews Accomplishments At Ward Rally

Calling upon every citizen of Jacksonville to go to the polls next Tuesday, Feb. 22, to vote in the city primary election, Ernest L. Hoagland, addressed a rally held at the Washington school in the Fourth Ward. Hoagland, Republican candidate for re-nomination for mayor, declared that his administration had kept faith with the people in carrying out a program for civic betterment.

"Every pledge which was made has been fulfilled by action," Hoagland said.

"There are many things yet to be done to make Jacksonville a better city and your city government has been planning ahead, striving to make improvements as we are financially able to do so. If reelected as your mayor, I pledge my wholehearted support to carrying out these plans. Among them are the erection of suitable street markers at each of the 300 intersections in the city, the rehabilitation of our street lighting system, the loop paving project, water and sewer extensions, and further street resurfacing. These improvements can be obtained upon a balanced budget without endangering the sound financial structure which has been consistently maintained," Hoagland stated.

Alderman L. Allan Kelly introduced Mayor Hoagland at the meeting. Kelly related some of the difficult problems faced by the city council and paid tribute to Hoagland for his outstanding leadership in helping solve those problems. "He has been an honest, conscientious, hard-working mayor," Kelly declared.

Alderman Robert Weaver and C. H. Haneine, opposing candidates for nomination for alderman in the Fourth Ward, were also introduced at the meeting. Entertainment was provided by Raymond Stewart, LeRoy Buchanan, Merritt Caldwell and Jack Daniels and his Melody Four.

Wisconsin Bishop M'Murray Chapel Speaker Tuesday

MacMurray College students and faculty and a number of townspeople heard Bishop H. Clifford Northcott of the Methodist church in the Wisconsin area speak at chapel service Tuesday morning. President McClelland, in introducing him, mentioned that he had been appointed to this office since his appearance here last year.

Dr. Northcott did not give his address a formal topic, but illustrated the words of Frau Aja, mother of the famous poet Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, made late in her life: "I rejoice in my life because the lamp still glows. I seek no thorny ways; I love the small pleasures of life; if the doors are too low, I bend; if I can remove a stone from the path, I do so; if it is too heavy, I go around it, and so I find some way every day that pleases me; and in the cornerstone, which is my faith in God, keeps my heart happy and my face shining." Here, he said, is the secret of a happy life.

Music was furnished by the College choir and Wilbur Sheridan, organist.

MORGAN FARMERS BUILD MODERN SLAUGHTER PLANT

Although some specialized equipment awaits installation, the modern meat processing plant built by co-operating Morgan county farmers is a mighty busy place these days. The structure is located east of Jacksonville on the old state road.

Specially designed machinery makes the job of butchering a lot easier, faster and cleaner.

Manager Robert M. Short (upper left) is shown pushing on a lever which swings a fine Duroc shank, brought in by W. E. Davidson of the Lynnville community, out of the "de-hairer." Charles Jones, foreground, catches the nearly nude porker as it slides by. The machine removed nearly all the bristles in 12 seconds.

The smaller picture shows Jones weighing 583 pounds of prime beef from an Angus steer brought in by Herbert Mawson of rural route 1.

Inspecting the carcass just before it rolls into the chill room are A. Paul Johnson of Ashland, president of the Morgan County Locker Service, and Manager Short.

More than 300 farmers went together to build the processing plant and the office-locker building on East Court street. Cooperatives of this type have been growing at a rapid pace throughout the Cornbelt. Farmers bring in their own animals and take it home processed and wrapped according to their preferences.

But it does away with that other form of rural cooperation, the butchering ring.

New Processing Plant Compact And Efficient

By the Journal Courier Farm Editor

The processing plant recently erected by the Morgan County Locker Service on the old state road looks rather small to the passerby; so small that the visitor is surprised when he gets inside. There isn't any waste space. There is ample working space, large chill and ripening rooms, freezing room, curing room, a smoke house, boiler room, a rendering section and rest rooms for the employees.

More than 300 Morgan county farmers are owners of it and the 102 unit locker building on East Court street. The set-up cost $125,000. Now a customer can bring in a meat animal and get it processed anyway he wants it.

The cooperative threatens to do away with that much older cooperative rural enterprise, the butchering ring. Even those who bewail the lack of neighborliness "these days" are not apt to cry much about its passing. For one thing, butchering on the farm is a lot of genuine hard work. Inefficiency rules, for the job doesn't come around often enough to give anybody a chance for proficiency.

Hoists Saves Labor

Electric hoists on overhead rails take the lifting out of the job. Hogs come in from covered pens into a shackling pen. A chain is passed around a hind leg and up goes the hog. He's brought over a bleeding table. One expert plunge with a sharp knife severs the large artery in the throat. The blood gushes and death follows shortly, an almost painless death.

The animal is then lowered into a large vat of water, maintained by steam heat at an even 150 degrees. The water is conditioned by the addition of 20 pounds of lime and five pounds of salt. When the bristles loosen, a set of submarine tongs lifts the hog into the "dehairer." Hundreds of steel-tipped rubber blades stud two opposite-running rollers. Ten or 15 seconds in the contraption and out comes the hog, practically naked.

Mighty Fine Machine

This machine is especially admired by older farmers who have spent what seemed endless hours in near zero weather plucking out bristles after a bad scald. "In fact, there has probably been more blasphemy expended around the scraping table than any other place on the farm."

For scalding failures were quite the ordinary thing. The open air butcher had little control over the project. The water, boiling in kettles, cooled more or less in transfer to the barrel or tank; the air temperature varied greatly between one job and another. In fact a lot of things could happen to make scraping a hog a most easy task or a long, tedious job. To be on the safe side one Methodist deacon, the writer knew always insisted that "his wild son-in-law be on hand until the hogs were swinging from the gambrels. In case there was "a bad scald" it was convenient to have an already lost soul on hand to do the necessary cussing.

When the hog comes out of the "dehairer" it doesn't take long to finish slicking him up. The gambrel is swung on a track; the carcass is washed and opened, weighed, and tagged and pushed into the chill room, kept at 34 degrees.

After a day there he goes into the ageing room, 36-38 degrees, to await the cutters. Fresh pork is cut and wrapped according to the wishes of the customer. Joints to be cured are further processed. A special brine is pumped into the arteries and the pieces laid in a sugar cure in a cool room for 21 days. Then they're washed and hung in a room full of circulating hickory smoke.

The entire place is easy to keep clean. Employees must take the food handler's physical examination every six months. The 102-unit building houses the central office, 702 individual lockers, two storage rooms.

Virginia Citizens To Patrol Streets

Virginia—Between 60 and 75 business men have signed a statement they would patrol the streets of Virginia at night until the present crime wave has passed. Approximately $20 was taken from the high school building Friday night. Entrance was gained through a window. On Saturday night five batteries were taken from cars parked in the city lot. The cars belonged to the Virginia Auto Sales company operated by Mark O. Skiles, located directly across the street from the lot.

These thefts followed burglaries of Birmingham's meat market and the Hoppin drug store.

The business men will patrol in cars in pairs, and no one will know who is on duty or which car to watch. It is believed clues will be gained in this manner.

Quick Promotion Plan Offered By Local Guard Unit

A progressive promotion plan which permits rapid advancement for all ranks of the Illinois National Guard was outlined Tuesday by Captain Quinlan, commanding officer of Company G, 123rd Infantry. Under the new regulations, organization assignment in a grade higher than that held by an officer qualifies him for promotion after only one year's service. Officers may also qualify for promotion by serving two years as first lieutenant, and so on up to four years required in the grade of lieutenant colonel. All reserve, active duty and National Guard service is credited toward these requirements.

In addition to rapid promotion, Capt. Quinlan outlined new easier methods of obtaining direct commissions in the greatly expanded Illinois National Guard. First, he said, former World War II officers, the former if they meet age in grade and the latter if they are under 32 years of age. Secondly, Guardsmen who complete a minimum of one year of either Federal or Guard service, or both, are between 21 and 32 years of age, and successfully complete an Army correspondence course may be commissioned where suitable vacancies exist.

May Be Commissioned
Lastly, Capt. Quinlan said, former enlisted men with at least six months of wartime service in the armed forces, not over 28 years of age and graduates of accredited colleges or universities may be commissioned as National Guard officers providing the institution offered no advanced ROTC course or the academic period did not permit the completion of such a course.

Company G also offers veterans of World War II a number of top ratings as instructors or technicians with full longevity pay and liberal retirement benefits, and, under the new three-year career plan men with no previous service are assured advancement of at least one grade for each year of part-time service while being drafted deferred if under 18 years of age. Under proposed legislation all Guard members will also be exempt from universal military training.

Those interested in signing up with the National Guard should see Sgt. Brown or Cpl. Cole at the National Guard armory in this city, 115 South East street, between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Applications may also report at the regular weekly training period, held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. each Wednesday at the local armory.
